Polar Cape is looking for a .Net developer!

About

Polar Cape is an IT professional services company with a great vision. We focus on delivering a substantial business value to our clients. We are experts on project delivery and the key to our success is our talented consultants.

We believe that our resources are the key asset to our company, and that is why we focus on creating a positive and friendly work environment.

All our employees share a passion for IT, they are responsible, self-driven and are satisfying the customer's need, that in turn makes us a desirable partner to our clients. To ensure professional growth, Polar Cape offers a stimulating work experience, continuous learning and growth opportunities that allows you to acquire the knowledge and skills necessary to reach your career goals.

.Net Tech Lead

Are you a highly experienced .Net developer, with knowledge of Microsoft technologies stack?
Have you had team leader or Project Manager responsibility for at least three years?

Polar Cape is building up a .Net team for one of our clients. The tech lead will be a critical success factor for this team. A combination of excellent technical skills and customer management skills is required. The tech lead will capture and analyze requirements, communicate with the client, perform hands-on development, be responsible for system architecture, as well as coaching team members. If you have a solid technical background, are always curious about new technologies, and have a passion for building high-performance teams - then we have a very exciting opportunity for you. You will be leading a new team, but with supportive and highly motivated colleagues.

At Polar Cape we put personal development in focus so you will be learning and growing from day one. Sound interesting? Send us your CV!
